

ABSTRACT

A remote control device including a feedback device for receiving signals from an electronic device. The feedback device includes a receiver, a processor in communication with the receiver, and an output device in communication with the processor.